This month in the nursery

This month in the nursery children have been learning and participating in activities around their feelings, emotions, their body, their family and the local area in an age-appropriate way.

Children also participated in selected pumpkin activities, which was such a beautiful experience during the month of October.

All children were very excited and they showed interest in exploring the pumpkin learning activities.

In the nursery, we also celebrated Black History Month. Children had the opportunity to learn more about black history and the contributions black people have made.

Older children were introduced to some of the most well-known and important people in black history.

Carpet time

Caterpillar, Butterflies and the Preschool room will have Carpet time twice daily in the nursery.

Carpet time or circle time is an essential part of any classroom as it supports children's listening, attention and understanding.

This learning activity helps the babies, toddlers and pre-schoolers to understand the nursery's routine and promotes social interaction in a group setting.

The Carpet time session will start with singing our 'Hello how are you song' and reviewing the calendar and the weather which will give children a sense of time and organisation.

During our carpet time, children will enjoy participating in an interesting activity called 'What's in the bag'. This activity encourages children to develop imagination and to build their language skills.

Children will listen to the instructions given and they put their hand inside the bag to feel an object and to try to guess and describe the object in the bag.

This activity also encourages the children's learning of turn-taking and listening to the others as they participate in a group.

During Carpet time children will also learn about the Nursery's Golden rules.

Golden rules in the nursery

Golden rules in a nursery are a set of rules appropriate to each child's age that establish shared experiences between the children and help them understand how they should behave.

Having established rules will help children to understand the nursery's boundaries and to create a positive space for them to learn and grow.

Caterpillar Room:

- Kind hands and feet.

Butterfly Room:

- Kind hands and feet
- Kind words
- Good listening
- Good looking
- Good sitting
- Good tidying

Pre-school:

- Kind hands and feet
- Kind words
- Good listening
- Good looking
- Good sitting
- Good tidying
- Indoor voices
- Walking feet
- Feet on the floor
- Take turns.

Our aim in teaching the Golden Rules is not to attempt to manage the child's behaviour, but to provide inspiration and motivation to bring out the best in the child by developing children's self-knowledge, self-esteem and self-regulation so they can accept responsibility for their behaviour.

Parachute play

As we continued to enjoy the sunny weather, the children participated in playing with a large outdoor parachute. The children gathered around the parachute and held a parachute handle each and they waved the parachute handles up and down making the parachute wave. As the parachute was lifted up the children were running underneath having so much fun.
